

Jean-André Diaz

International Consultant - Arbitration, Mediation

Jean-André Diaz is presently acting as an International Consultant on Arbitration, Energy and Law of the Sea matters. He spent most of his professional career in different positions at the Legal Department of TOTAL. As Legal Director, he has led a team of lawyers for many years and personally negotiated and enforced contracts both for the upstream and the downstream sectors of the petroleum industry in many parts of the world (Africa, Middle East, North/Central Europe and Americas). This has given him the opportunity to be regularly involved in international arbitrations and mediation under various rules and legal systems.

He has been the Chair of the Oil and Gas Committee of the International Bar Association (IBA) and of the Corporate Counsel International Arbitration Group (CCIAG). He is now Vice Chair of the Section on Energy, Environment, Natural Resources and Infrastructure Law of the IBA.

He is a member of the Board of the Comité français de l'arbitrage and a Member of the ICC Institute of World Business Law.
